Question 1. Draw the Importance of Eemaan in Al-Qadaa' Wal Qadar (Divine Preordainment) in Islam?

Answer:

Belief in Al-Qadaa wal Qadar (Divine will and Decree) is one of the pillars of faith. The Muslim's faith is not complete unless he knows that whatever befalls Him could not have missed Him, and whatever misses Him could not have befallen Him. Al-Qadaa' Wal Qadar includes:-

1. Belief in the eternal knowledge of Allaah that encompasses all things, and that He The Almighty knew what happened, what is going to happen and what did not happen, how it would have been if it had happened
2. Belief that Allah The Almighty wrote everything that is going to happen until the Hour starts.
3. Belief that the will of Allah is irresistible and nothing can escape His might.

Everything is subject to the will and decree of Allah, as Allah says (interpretation of the meaning):

“Verily, We have created all things with Qadar (Divine Preordainments of all things before their creation as written in the Book of Decrees Al Lawh Al Mahfooz). [Al-Qamar 54:49]

Belief in Al-Qadaa' Wal Qadar is the real test of the extent of a person's belief in Allah. It is the true test of how much a person really knows about his Lord and what results from this knowledge of certain and sincere faith in Allah, and His attributes of majesty and perfection.

Question 2. Write short Notes on- Tashbeeh, Tahreef, ta'teel.

Answer:

Tashbeeh (Comparison) : Comparing the attributes of the creator to the attributes of the created. If it is said: Allah's hand is like my hand, or similar to my hand; Allah's hearing is like my hearing, or similar to my hearing, then this is tashbeeh. But if what is being said is what Allah has said: Hand, Hearing, Seeing, and it is not asked how, nor is it said: Like my hearing, or similar to my hearing - then it is not tashbeeh (resemblance).

Tahreef (Distortion) : Through false interpretation, change or alteration. Such as the alteration of the wordings of the names and attributes, by adding to them, subtracting from them or changing the grammatical constructions.

Ta'teel (Negation) : Negating Divine attributes, and denying their existence in Allah, such as negating the perfection of Allah by denying His names and attributes, negating the proper conduct towards Allah by abandoning

His worship, or barring the created from its Creator, such as those who deny the fact that Allah created the universe and claim that it developed and evolved of its accord.

Question 3. Illustrate the elements that should be avoided in Tawhidul Asma Was Sifat?

Answer:

Here are elements that should be avoided in Tawhidul Asma Was Sifat:-

- Tashbeeh (Comparison) : Comparing the attributes of the creator to the attributes of the created. If it is said: Allah's hand is like my hand, or similar to my hand; Allah's hearing is like my hearing, or similar to my hearing, then this is tashbeeh. But if what is being said is what Allah has said: Hand, Hearing, Seeing, and it is not asked how, nor is it said: Like my hearing, or similar to my hearing - then it is not tashbeeh (resemblance).
- Tahreef (Distortion) : Through false interpretation, change or alteration. Such as the alteration of the wordings of the names and attributes, by adding to them, subtracting from them or changing the grammatical constructions.
- Ta'teel (Negation) : Negating Divine attributes, and denying their existence in Allah, such as negating the perfection of Allah by denying His names and attributes, negating the proper conduct towards Allah by abandoning His worship, or barring the created from its Creator, such as those who deny the fact that Allah created the universe and claim that it developed and evolved of its accord.
- Takyeef : Ascertaining how Allah's attributes take form and also determining their essence. It is to mention how an attribute is, such as someone saying: Allah's Hand is like this and like that and Allah's Descent to lowest Heaven is like this and like that. So a person may not compare Him to a specific and named created thing (which distinguishes Takyeef from Tashbeeh) but he delves into how he perceives the attribute to be. This delving is forbidden and how an attribute is, is not known except to Allah.

Question 4. Describe Hajj as a pillar of Islam.

Answer:

Hajj represents the fifth fundamental pillar in Islam and is mandatory for financially capable Muslims. This pilgrimage to Makkah occurs once in a lifetime, typically from the 8th to the 13th of Dhu-Hijja, the twelfth month in the Hijra calendar. It represents Muslims' divine servitude to Islam. As long as the Prophet (pbuh) ordered Muslims to perform Hajj while maintaining some different activities including Tawaf, Say'ee, throwing stones, etc., whether these made sense to them or not, they implemented the prophet's order without question. That is one of the highest forms of submission to Islam.

Allah says:

"And whatsoever the Messenger gives you, take it, and whatsoever he forbids you, abstain from it".- (Surah Al-Hashr, 59:07)

It holds immense significance as Allah instructed Prophet Ibraheem to proclaim its importance to humanity, as referenced in the Quran-

"Call all people to the pilgrimage. They will come to you on foot and every lean camel from every distant path."³¹- Surah Al-Hajj (22:27).

Allah specifies Hajj as an obligation upon those who can afford the expenses required for the journey and denounces disbelief in it as disbelief in Allah. Allah says in the Glorious Qur'an-

"And Hajj (pilgrimage to Makkah) to the House (Ka'bah) is a duty that mankind owes to Allah, those who can afford the expenses (for one's conveyance, provision and residence); and whoever disbelieves (i.e. denies Hajj, then he is a disbeliever of Allah), then Allah stands not in need of any of the A'lamin (mankind and jinn)." - Surah Aal-e Imran (3:97)

Hajj is also believed to purify one's past sins, as mentioned by Abu Hurairah-

The Prophet (p.b.u.h) said, "He who came to this House (Ka'ba) (with the intention of performing Pilgrimage), and neither spoke indecently nor did he act wickedly. would return (free from sin) as on the (very first day) his mother bore him. - (Sahih Muslim, hadith no 1350). This act, performed with purity and avoidance of wrongdoing, cleanses the sins of the pilgrim, akin to a rebirth.

Question 5. Why do we worship Allah even if worship doesn't benefit Him?

Answer:

In Islamic theology, worshiping Allah is a fundamental and central aspect of faith and religious practice. While it is true that worship does not benefit Allah in the sense that He is not in need of anything, there are several important reasons why we should engage in worship:

- Obedience & Submission: Worship is a means through which Muslims demonstrate their obedience and submission to Allah. It is a way of acknowledging Allah's authority and sovereignty over all creation. Muslims believe that obedience to Allah's commands is the ultimate purpose of human existence.
- Spiritual Growth: Worship helps individuals cultivate spiritual awareness and growth. It serves as a means of self-purification, mindfulness, and self-discipline. Through acts of worship such as prayer, fasting, and charity, Muslims seek to develop greater self-control, humility, and gratitude.
- Testing and Accountability: Muslims believe that life is a test, and worship is a means by which they are held accountable for their actions. It is a way of fulfilling their responsibilities and obligations to Allah. On the Day of Judgment, their worship and deeds will be evaluated.
- Community and Unity: Worship often involves communal activities, such as congregational prayers and Friday sermons. These activities foster a sense of community and unity among Muslims, reinforcing their shared faith and values.
- Moral and Ethical Guidance: Islamic worship includes ethical and moral teachings, which guide individuals in their daily lives. The Quran and Hadith provide principles for just and righteous conduct, and worship reinforces these values.
- Gratitude and Remembrance: Worship serves as a means for believers to express gratitude to Allah for His countless blessings and to remember Him in all aspects of life. Gratitude is an important spiritual quality in Islam.

Question 6. "An act of disobedience cannot be changed into an act of obedience simply due to a good intention", Discuss the fact according to the concept of etiquette in Islam.

Answer:

An act of disobedience cannot be changed into an act of obedience by having a good intention. Intention is an essential component of deeds and a condition for the validity of the deed. Intention is not simply the statement of the tongue, nor is it simply a thought in the mind. Instead, it is the driving force in the heart towards a deed that is in accord with a sound goal of bringing about a benefit or repelling harm, presently or in the future. With a good intention in the heart, a permissible act can may become an act of obedience, worthy of reward and recompense. But an act of disobedience cannot be changed into an act of obedience simply due to a good intention. Because having a good intention doesn't justify or legitimize an action that is inherently against Islamic teachings or regulations. Similarly, intending to perform a religious obligation in a way that contradicts the prescribed way, known as bid'ah (innovation), doesn't make the innovation acceptable even if the intention is good. Islam emphasizes adherence to the teachings of the Qur'an and the Prophet Muhammad(PBUH) without altering or adding practices based on personal inclinations or interpretations.

Question 7. Mention the Sayings of "Hasan Basri" and "Abdullah bin Mubaarak" regarding good characters.

Answer:

Regarding good characters, from the Salafs, Hasan Basri says: "Good character is smiling." And Abdullah bin Mubaarak says: "Good Character is in three qualities. Avoidance of Haraam, seeking halal, and expansion upon the family."

[As the question says just "mention the sayings...", I haven't felt the need to elaborate the sayings or interpret them. Also, there are no other lines in the given slides.]

Question 8. What to do when you are in Fear of missing a funeral or Eid prayer? Explain.

Answer:

When in fear of missing the Eid prayer or funeral prayer one should perform Tayammum. To get rid of Najaasate Hukmiyya by making use of clean earth or clay in a special way is called Tayammum. Tayammum is allowed in certain cases. One of them is the fear of missing the Eid prayer or funeral prayer. If one is in a rush to reach Eid or funeral prayer, both prayers which are Wajib, one should perform Tayammum & complete the required Salat.

Question 9. In which specific part of Purification (Wudu/Gusl/Tayammum) making Niyyat (Intention) is Farz? Explain why?

Answer:

Intention/Niyyat is Farz in Tayammum because it is performed with soil/dust which does not essentially purify the dirt and only a substitute for water. Since it is a kind of cleanliness or state of purity achieved by using the soil/dust which doesn't actually make us clean, rather the intention/Niyyat behind it is making us clean or pure.

Question 10. Mention the types of Hajj.

Answer:

There are three types or methods of performing Hajj. All three methods fulfill all the Islamic requirements for the Hajj.

- Hajj Tamattu: The one that most people perform is called Hajj Tamattu (Enjoy). This is the Hajj the Prophet (pbuh) instructed his companions to perform. This is Hajj joined with Umrah with two separate niy'at [One Travel-Two Niy'at-Two Ihram-Umrah & Hajj].
- Hajj Qiran (Doing Together): Hajj Qiran is a type of Hajj in which the pilgrim enters the state of Ihram for both Umrah and Hajj simultaneously. This means that the pilgrim performs all of the rituals of both Umrah and Hajj in one niy'at. [One Travel-One Niy'at-One Ihram-Umrah & Hajj].
- Hajj Ifrad (single/Alone): Hajj Ifrad is the simplest type of Hajj. It involves entering the state of Ihram for Hajj alone.[One Travel-One Niy'at-One Ihram-Only Hajj].

Question 11. Write Notes on: Ihraam, Mahram, Meeqaat, Hajr-al-Aswad (Black Stone), Zamzam Well, Sa'ee, Tawaf.

Answer:

- Ihraam: Ihraam is a sacred state that Muslims enter into before performing the Hajj or Umrah pilgrimage. It involves specific clothing and a state of spiritual sanctity with prescribed actions and prohibitions. Ihram clothing for men typically consists of two seamless white sheets, while women can wear simple, modest clothing adhering to Islamic guidelines.

[There is a lot more information in the given slides such as restrictions for men and women during being in the state of Ihraam, detailed description of clothing, etc. If you want to include those things, just go through the slides. But I am avoiding it as it'll make the answer very lengthy.]

- Mahram: The obligation of Hajj is the same for women as it is for men. However, a woman has to meet one additional requirement for eligibility, namely to have a Mahram. A mahram for any woman is her husband or any male she is prohibited from marrying forever because of a relationship resulting from either blood, marriage, or breast-feeding. Examples of mahram are brothers, fathers, and uncles. Brothers-in-law or cousins are not mahrams).
- Meeqat: The meeqat (Arabic: مَيْقَات) is a principal boundary at which Muslim pilgrims intending to perform the Hajj or Umrah must enter the state of ihram. A Muslim who intends to go to Makkah is not allowed to pass the Meeqaat without donning the Ihraam. There are five zones as mentioned in the Hadith below:

Ibn 'Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him) said: The Messenger of Allah (peace and blessings of Allah be upon him) defined the meeqat of the people of Madinah as Dhul-Hulayfah; that of the people of Sham (Syria) as al-Juhfah; that of the people of Najd as Qarn al-Manazil; and that of the people of Yemen as Yalamlam. – (Sahih Muslim, hadith no 1181)

- Hajr-al-Aswad (Black Stone): A special stone was placed in Ka'bah's eastern corner to mark the starting point for the circling of the Ka'bah. This stone, according to the Prophet's explanation, was originally shining white in color when it was brought down from Paradise. However, due to the sins of man, it changed to its present color of black, hence the name Hajr-al-Aswad (the Black Stone). Narrated by Ibn Abbas (may Allah be pleased with him-
Allah's Messenger (PBUH) said, "The black stone descended from Paradise whiter than milk, but the sins of the descendants of Adam made it black." - (At-Tirmiji, hadith no 877, Grade: Hasan(Darussalam) and Musnad Ahmad, hadith no 2792, classed as Sahih by Ibn Khuzaymah)
- Zamzam well: The Zamzam Well is a well located within the Masjid al-Haram in Mecca, Saudi Arabia. According to Islamic narratives, the well is a miraculously generated source of water, which opened up thousands of years ago when the son of Ibrahim(AS), Isma'il , was left with his mother Hajar in the desert by the command of Allah. In a state of distress and seeking water for her son, Hajar ran back and forth seven times between the hills of Safa and Marwah. In response to her sincere supplications, the angel Jibreel is said to have struck the ground with his wing, causing the water of Zamzam to spring forth near the infant Isma'il. The water of Zamzam is highly revered by Muslims, and it is considered blessed and pure. Pilgrims who visit the Masjid al-Haram during Hajj and Umrah often drink from the Zamzam well and carry its water back home as a symbol of spiritual purification and blessings. Muslims believe in the healing and nourishing properties of Zamzam water.
- Sa'ee: Sa'ee is a ritual performed by pilgrims during Hajj and Umrah pilgrimages in Islam. It involves walking briskly seven times between the hills of Safa and Marwa, located near the Kaaba in Makkah. The ritual commemorates the actions of Hajar, the wife of Prophet Ibrahim(AS), as she sought water for her son Isma'il. According to Islamic tradition, in her search for water, she ran between these hills seven times until the miraculous appearance of the Zamzam well. Sa'ee symbolizes Hajar's struggle and her perseverance in seeking sustenance for her child. This ritual of walking between Safa and Marwa is an integral part of the Hajj and Umrah pilgrimages, reminding Muslims of the virtues of patience, faith, and the mercy of Allah.
- Tawaf: Tawaf is the ritual of circumambulating the Kaaba, the sacred structure at the center of Masjid al-Haram in Makkah. It's an essential part of the Hajj pilgrimage and the Umrah in Islam. During Tawaf, pilgrims walk around the Kaaba seven times in a counterclockwise direction, starting from the corner where the Black Stone is located. This ritual symbolizes the unity of Muslims and their devotion to Allah. Pilgrims supplicate, recite prayers, and express their submission and reverence to Allah during it. The act of Tawaf holds deep spiritual significance, representing the concept of encircling the center of faith and unity in Islam, reaffirming the oneness of Allah and the unity of the Muslim community.

Question 12. Extract the facts or key features of the Islamic Economy from the three definitions discussed in the class.

Answer:

Here are the three definitions discussed in the class:

1. Islamic economics is a branch of knowledge which helps realize human well-being through an allocation and distribution of scarce resources that is in conformity with Islamic teachings without unduly curbing individual freedom or creating continued macroeconomic and ecological imbalances.

--Dr. Mohammad Umar Chapra

The key features from this definitions are:

- i. Human Well-Being
- ii. Conformity with Islamic Teaching
- iii. Preservation of Individual Freedom and Balance

2. Islamic Economics is an academic discipline that reconciles between men's material and spiritual needs and resources provided by Allah in accordance with principles and objectives of Islamic Shariah in order to achieve prosperity Here and Hereafter.

--Dr. Ashraf Muhammad Dawabah

The key features from this definitions are:

- i. Reconciliation of Material and Spiritual Needs
- ii. Utilization of Resources Provided by Allah
- iii. Prosperity Here and Hereafter

3. "Islamic economics is the knowledge and application of injunctions and rules of the Shariah that prevent injustice in the acquisition and disposal of material resources in order to provide satisfaction to human beings and enable them to perform their obligations to Allah and the society."

--S. M. Hasanuz Zaman

The key features from this definitions are:

- i. Prevention of Injustice of Resources Management
- ii. Satisfaction of Human Needs
- iii. Facilitating Fulfillment of Obligations to Allah and Society

Question 13. How is Riba harmful to the economy? Explain briefly.

Answer:

Riba, which refers to usury or interest, is considered harmful to the Islamic economy for several reasons based on Islamic principles. Here are some key points:

- i. Unjust Enrichment:
 - Riba involves the unjust enrichment of lenders at the expense of borrowers. In an Islamic economic system, wealth is meant to be earned through legitimate means, and the charging of interest is seen as an exploitative practice that allows the lender to benefit unfairly.
- ii. Violation of Ethical Principles:
 - Believers are commanded to give up engaging in usury, reinforcing the ethical stance against interest-based transactions in Islam. As Allah said, "O you who have believed, fear Allah and give up what remains [due to you] of interest, if you should be believers. And if you do not, then be informed of a war [against you] from Allah and His Messenger." (Quran, 2:278-279)
- iii. Barriers to Economic Justice:
 - Usury is linked to the unjust consumption of wealth and is viewed as an obstacle to achieving economic justice in society. As Allah said, "And for their taking of interest while they had been forbidden from it, and their consuming of the people's wealth unjustly." (Quran, 4:161)
- iv. Discouragement of Productive Ventures:
 - The Quran promotes legitimate economic activities such as trade but discourages interest, emphasizing the importance of ethical and productive ventures over exploitative financial practices. As Allah said, "But Allah has permitted trade and has forbidden interest." (Quran, 2:275)
- v. Spiritual Consequences:
 - The warning of a "war" from Allah and His Messenger underscores the gravity of engaging in usury and the spiritual consequences associated with it.

Question 14. What are the Distinguishing Features of the Islamic Penal System?

Answer:

The Islamic penal system also has unique virtues and distinguishing features, among the most important of which are the following:

- i. The inner deterrent of man's moral conscience is fully integrated with external supervision. This is due to the fact that Islamic Law, when dealing with social problems such as crime, does not rely merely on legislation and external deterrents. It focuses more on the internal deterrent, placing the greatest emphasis on man's moral conscience.
- ii. It endeavors to develop this conscience within a person from childhood so that he can be brought up with the noblest moral character.
- iii. It promises success and salvation for those who work righteousness and warns wrongdoers of an evil fate. In this way, it stirs up emotions, making a criminal renounce his ways by inspiring him with faith in God, hope for divine mercy, fear of divine punishment, adherence to moral virtues, love for others, and a desire to do good to others and refrain from causing injury and harm.

- iv. It has a balanced outlook with respect to the relationship between the individual and society. This becomes clear from the fact that while the Divine Law protects society by legislating punishments and preventative measures against crimes, it does not marginalize the individual for the sake of society. On the contrary, its priority is the protection of the individual, his freedom, and his rights. It provides every safeguard to leave no excuse for a person to have to resort to crime. It does not set out to punish without first preparing for the individual a situation conducive to a virtuous and happy life.

Question 15. Write Notes on: Hadd, Qisas, Ta'zir.

Answer:

- Hadd: Refers to prescribed punishment. Crimes that fall under this category can be defined as legally prohibited acts that God forcibly prevents by way of fixed, predetermined punishments, the execution of which is considered the right of God. These punishments have certain peculiarities that set them apart from others. The following crimes fall under the jurisdiction: theft, highway robbery, adultery and fornication, false accusations, apostasy and drinking.
- Qisas: Also called retribution. This is the second type of punishment in Islamic Law. This is where the perpetrator of the crime is punished with the same injury that he caused to the victim. If the criminal killed the victim, then he is killed. If he cut off or injured a limb of the victim, then his own limb will be cut off or injured if it is possible without killing the criminal. Specialists are used to make this determination. The punishment must be carried out by the government. The family of the victim cannot carry it out.
- Ta'zir: Also refers to discretionary punishments. These are punishments that are not fixed by Islamic Law, for crimes that either infringe on the rights of God or the rights of an individual, but do not have a fixed punishment or a set expiation. Discretionary punishments are the broadest category of punishments, because the crimes that have fixed punishments are few in number and all other crimes fall under the scope of this last category. They are the most flexible type of punishment, because they take into consideration the needs of society and changing social conditions.

Question 16. How do you glorify Fasting and the month of Ramadan in your Eye?

Answer:

Fasting is a practical exercise of self-control. Due to its practical implication, it is one of the pillars of Islam. It helps Muslims acquire Taqwa (awareness of Allah). Allah says:

"O you who believe, fasting is decreed for you, as it was decreed for those before you, that you may (learn) self-restraint".-- (Surah Al-Baqarah, 2:183)

Fasting is not only prescribed for the Ummah of Prophet Muhammad (PBUH), but it was, with little variations in types, for previous prophets too. So it remained among the key worships of Islam in its final form, abrogating all the previous forms. The positive impacts of fasting in its last form for the Ummah of Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) are manifested in Muslims' lives personally, psychologically, behaviorally, and socially.

Muslims observe fasting from dawn until sunset, abstaining from food, drink, smoking, and intimate relations in the holy month of Ramadan. In this month, the Quran was revealed and the Prophet Muhammad (PBUH) started inviting people to Islam. This makes Ramadan a spiritually charged month, emphasizing the significance of the Qur'an and its teachings along with the reminder of the religious obligation to give Dawah among non-Muslims. Fasting in Ramadan also boosts the Muslims' brotherhood and sense of unity rather than fasting in different months or leaving it to Muslims to choose themselves. Overall, Ramadan is a month of spiritual significance, providing an opportunity for Muslims to renew their faith, seek closeness to Allah, and grow spiritually through acts of kindness and charity.

Question 17. "Whoever can guarantee (the chastity of) what is between his two jaw-bones and what is between his two legs, I guarantee Paradise for him.” (Bukhari), Explain.

Answer:

This saying, attributed to Prophet Muhammad in a Hadith recorded in Bukhari, emphasizes the importance of controlling two significant aspects of human behavior: speech and actions related to desires.

The reference to "what is between his two jaw-bones" refers to controlling one's speech—ensuring that what one says is good, truthful, and avoids harm to oneself and others. It underscores the importance of guarding one's tongue, using speech wisely, and refraining from falsehood, gossip, slander, or any speech that may cause harm or spread negativity. Abu Hurairah narrated that-the Prophet (PBUH) said: “Whoever believes in Allah and the Last Day, then let him say what is good or remain silent.” – (At-Tirmidhi, hadith no. 2500, Grade: Sahih)

The phrase "what is between his two legs" refers to controlling one's sexual desires and actions. It highlights the significance of maintaining chastity, avoiding unlawful or inappropriate sexual behavior, and channeling one's desires within the boundaries prescribed by Islamic teachings.

The Hadith essentially emphasizes the importance of moderation and control over two significant aspects of human behavior—speech and physical desires. Whoever manages to control these two desires will be able to control other desires and lusts quite easily. By exercising control over these aspects, a person aims to maintain righteousness and purity in their conduct, which is considered a crucial factor in achieving spiritual growth and ultimately attaining Paradise in the Hereafter.

Question 18. “if one does not abandon from falsehood and other actions like it, God has no need that one should abandon one's food and drink” (Bukhari), How to apply the Concept of Fasting is your Daily Life according to this Hadith .

Answer:

This Hadith from Bukhari emphasizes that fasting is not merely about abstaining from food and drink; it encompasses a broader sense of self-discipline, righteousness, and avoidance of sinful behavior, including falsehood and other negative actions.

Applying the concept of fasting in daily life, as emphasized in this Hadith, involves more than just refraining from physical nourishment during Ramadan or specific days of fasting. It extends to fostering a holistic approach to self-improvement and righteousness throughout the year. Here are ways to apply this concept:

- Truthfulness and Honesty: One should strive to be truthful in all aspects of life; and avoid lying, deception, and spreading falsehoods. He should cultivate a habit of honesty and integrity in his words and actions.
- Avoiding Harmful Behavior: One should refrain from actions that cause harm to himself or others. This includes avoiding gossip, backbiting, slander, and any behavior that brings negativity or hurt to someone else.
- Self-Reflection: Use fasting as an opportunity for self-reflection and self-control. Identify and work on personal flaws or negative habits that need improvement, such as anger, impatience, or arrogance.
- Charitable Actions: Engage in acts of kindness and charity beyond fasting days. Extend generosity and help to those in need, reflecting the spirit of compassion and empathy fostered during fasting.
- Spiritual Growth: Dedicate time to spiritual practices such as prayer, recitation of the Quran, and seeking forgiveness. Strive to strengthen connection with Allah and increase acts of worship beyond the fasting period.

In essence, this Hadith underscores that true fasting encompasses not only abstaining from food and drink but also purifying one's actions, words, and thoughts. It emphasizes the need for a comprehensive approach to self-improvement, righteousness, and moral conduct that extends far beyond the physical act of fasting.

Question 19. Compare ‘Ibn Khaldun’ and his book 'Muqadimmah' (the prolegomena) with ‘Adam Smith’ and his book 'Wealth of the Nation'.

Answer:

The idea of economics has been explored since the early ages of Islam. In the late eighth century of the Hijri year and the beginning of the ninth century, the entire sociological perspective, as well as economics, evolved with the pioneering Muslim sage Ibn Khaldun (d. 1404 CE). He wrote the Muqaddimah (The Prolegomena) far earlier than Adam Smith, commonly designated as the father of economics by the West whose book "Wealth of the Nation" was published in 1776 CE. In his Prolegomena (The Muqaddimah), 'Ibn Khaldun, laid down the foundations of different fields. His significant contributions to economics, however, should place him in the history of economic thought as a major forerunner, if not the 'father of economics', a title which has been given to Adam Smith, whose great works were published some three hundred and seventy years after Ibn Khaldun's death. Not only did Ibn Khaldun plant the germinating seeds of classical economics, whether in production, supply, or cost, but he also pioneered consumption, demand, and utility, the cornerstones of modern economic theory. Specially labor theory of value, specializing expertise, trade & population dynamics, and individual ownership were touched by both authors & many have argued that Ibn Khaldun was a far more original thinker than Adam Smith. It is due time the West recognizes Ibn Khaldun & Al-Muqaddimah as the forerunner of the liberal economic policy they practice today.

Question 20. "Man is free and has free will to choose"- How to apply the 'Concept of Reward, Crime & Punishment' in your life according to the Quran and Sunnah.

Answer:

In general, the preordainment implies reward for pious deeds and punishment for the impious actions. The fact is that the man is free. He is endowed with intellect and with it he is able to exercise control over material matters and distinguish and discriminate between fair and foul, righteous and unrighteous. In Islam the concept of reward and punishment are subject to freedom. Without freedom, there would have been no punishment, for an evil done under compulsion is not punishable. So, free will of human beings is the ultimate determiner of punishment & reward. Man can choose the right deeds according to shariah by his own will & gain rewards. He can also choose the wrong deeds & fall in the trap of devil to destroy his present & future. The man is rewarded whenever he does something good and is punished when he does something foul. Moreover, Allah does not encumber anyone beyond his capacities and He is never failing in appreciating even the slightest good deed done by a person.

As Allah said, "Whoever does righteousness, whether male or female, while he is a believer, We will surely cause him to live a good life, and We will surely give them their reward [in the Hereafter] according to the best of what they used to do." (Quran, 16:97)

Question 21. Define Nisab and Masaarif with lexical explanations.

Answer:

Nisab:

In Arabic, "Nisab" (نصاب) refers to the minimum threshold or value. In the context of Islamic finance, particularly related to Zakat (obligatory almsgiving), Nisab represents the minimum amount of wealth or assets that a Muslim must possess for a specified period before being obligated to pay Zakat on that wealth. Nisab is typically associated with specific types of assets, such as gold, silver, and other valuables, and it serves as a benchmark to determine whether an individual is eligible to pay Zakat.

Masaarif:

"Masaarif" (مصارف) is derived from the Arabic root word "Sarf," meaning to spend or expend. In Islamic financial terminology, Masaarif refers to expenditures or spending related to the needs and welfare of individuals or the community. It encompasses various categories of legitimate expenses, including those incurred for the well-being of the family, education, health, and charitable activities. Masaarif recognizes the importance of responsible and ethical spending in accordance with Islamic principles, promoting the proper utilization of wealth for the betterment of individuals and society.

Question 22. Write down the concept of Fornication and Adultery in Islam.

Answer:

This is defined as any case where a man has coitus with a woman who is unlawful to him. Any relationship between a man and a woman that is not inclusive of coitus does not fall under this category and does not mandate the prescribed, fixed punishment. In Islam, the concepts of fornication and adultery are considered serious violations of moral and ethical principles.

As Allah said, "The fornicating woman and the fornicating man, flog each one of them with one hundred stripes. No pity for them should prevail upon you in the matter of Allah's religion, if you really believe in Allah and the Last Day; and a group of believers must witness their punishment." [Surah An Nur, 24:2] Umar bin Khattab said: "...I have read it (in the Quran), 'And if an old man and an old woman commit adultery, stone them both.' The Messenger of Allah (SAW) stoned (adulterers) and we stoned (them) after him.'" (Sunan Ibn Majah, Grade: Sahih)

Question 23. Discuss the Islamic Approach to Combating Crime.

Answer:

The ultimate objective of every Islamic legal injunction is to secure the welfare of humanity in this world and the next by establishing a righteous society. This is a civilization that allows a person to fulfill his every spiritual, intellectual, and material need and cultivate every aspect of his being. As Allah said,

"We have sent our Messengers with clear signs and have sent down with them the book and the criterion so that man can establish justice. And we sent down iron of great strength and many benefits for man..." (Surah Al Hadid, 57:25)

He also added,

"Allah wants to make things clear for you and to guide you to the ways of those before you and to forgive you. Allah is the All-knowing, the Wise. Allah wants to forgive you and wants those who follow their desires to turn wholeheartedly towards (what is right). Allah wants to lighten your burdens, and He has created man weak." (Surah An-Nisa, 4:26-28)

Since the Islamic legal injunctions are aimed at achieving human welfare, they can all be referred back to universal principles which are necessary for human welfare to be secured. These universal principles are:

1. The preservation of life.
2. The preservation of religion.
3. The preservation of reason.
4. The preservation of lineage.
5. The preservation of property.

The Islamic penal system is aimed at preserving these five universal necessities.

- i. To preserve life, it prescribes the law of retribution.
- ii. preserve religion, it prescribes the punishment for apostasy.
- iii. preserve reason, it prescribes the punishment for drinking
- iv. preserve lineage, it prescribes the punishment for fornication.
- v. preserve wealth, it prescribes the punishment for theft.
- vi. protect all of them, it prescribes the punishment for highway robbery.

It should therefore become clear to us why the crimes for which Islam for which the Law has prescribed fixed punishments are as follows:

- i. Transgression against life (murder or assault).
- ii. Transgression against property (theft).
- iii. Transgression against lineage (fornication and false accusations of adultery).
- iv. Transgression against reason (using intoxicants).
- v. Transgression against religion (apostasy).
- vi. Transgression against all of these universal needs (highway robbery).

Question 24. "Mumin's matter is surprising", how and why?

Answer:

"Mumin's matter is surprising. All is well for him. This situation is for none but a Mumin. When he's in happy situation, he thanks Allah, so it's good for him. When he's in bad situation, he stays with patience, and that too is good for him." - (Sahih Muslim)

This hadith strongly depicts how Mumin's matter can be surprising. It shows how Sabr/Patience develops the character of a one-self. According to Al-Quran:

"Believers, be steadfast, and compete in steadfastness, stand firm in your faith, and hold Allah in fear that you may attain true success." (Aal-Imran, 3:200)

Allah (SWT) also said,

"Give good news to those who are patient. Those who say, when afflicted with a calamity, 'We belong to God and to Him we shall return.'" (Al-Baqarah, 2:155-156)

Question 25. Where are we from and where we are going to?

Answer:

In an Islamic context, the fundamental perspective on human existence is rooted in the belief in Allah (God) as the Creator and the concept of life as a journey with a purpose.

According to Islamic teachings, human beings originated from the divine act of creation by Allah.

The Quran states in , "When your Lord said to the angels, 'I am creating a human being from clay, molded into shape,' indicating that human origins lie in the act of divine creation. -- (Surah Sad, 38:71-72)

The Quran describes the creation of the first man, Adam, and his wife, Hawwa (Eve), as a special creation. Humans are created with a dual nature, composed of both the material (physical body) and the spiritual (soul), and they are entrusted with the responsibility of being vicegerents (caliphs) on Earth, maintaining justice, and worshipping Allah.

The ultimate destination in Islamic belief is the Hereafter, which includes the Day of Judgment. It is mentioned in the Quran,

"Indeed we belong to Allah, and indeed to Him we will return." -- (Surah Al-Baqarah, 2:156)

Muslims believe in accountability for their actions in this world, and the Hereafter is considered a continuation of this life. The destination is influenced by individual deeds and faith. Those who follow the righteous path and fulfill their obligations to Allah may attain eternal paradise (Jannah), while those who deviate from the path of righteousness may face consequences leading to hellfire.

The journey of life in Islam is seen as a test, an opportunity for individuals to exercise free will and make choices that align with the guidance provided in the Quran and the teachings of Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him). The ultimate goal is to worship Allah, live a righteous life, and seek closeness to the Creator.

Question 26. Write short Note on- Tahazzud, Tarawih, Qiyamull Layl, Sahri and Iftar, I'tikaf.

Answer:

- Tahazzud:

The Tahazzud prayer is usually performed after Isha and before performing Fajr. Tahazzud means to give up sleep, which is why this prayer is preferably performed during the last third of the night. According to Islam, Allah comes down to the lowest heaven during this part of the night to see who is dedicatedly worshipping and leaving their sleep in the middle of the night.

- Tarawih :

Tarawih is a special type of Salah performed during the Ramadan. It's length can vary, from 8 rakah upto 20, even 32 rakahs. Usually it is performed after the Isha prayer, with Jamat & also recitation of Quran. It is sunnah to perform Tarawih during Ramadan & it is highly rewarded.

- Sehri & Iftar:

Sehri & Iftar both terms are related to Ramadan & in general, sawm. Before Sawm or fasting, one has to eat before subeh sadik, that is called sehri. Prophet Muhammad(sm) advised to eat sehri, as sehrs are blessings. On the other hand, after the sunset, muslims break their fast by eating iftar, which breaks the fast. Both are quite significant in the process of fasting.

- I'tikaf:

I'tikaf means to be in isolation in a Masjid or at home with the intention of solely dedicating your time to the worship of Allah (SWT). It is Sunnat-al-Muaqidah (Sunnah that is urged to be performed) to sit in Itikaf in the last 10 day of Ramadan. A person may commence Itikaf after sunset of 20th of Ramadan, and end it when the moon for Eid is sighted. The Sunnah stays the same if the month of Ramadan is of 29 or 30 days.

Question 27. "Surely prayer keeps (one) away from indecency and evil - Sura Ankabut; [29:45] - How prayer prohibits immorality and wrongdoing in society?

Answer:

Prayer, in the context of Islam, serves as a spiritual and moral compass that can play a significant role in prohibiting immorality and wrongdoing in society. Here's how it can contribute to this goal:

- 1. Spiritual Awareness: Regular prayer encourages individuals to maintain a strong connection with their faith and spirituality. When people are spiritually aware, they are more likely to make ethical and moral choices in their daily lives. Prayer serves as a reminder of one's accountability to a higher power and their moral obligations.
- 2. Self-Reflection: Prayer often includes moments of self-reflection and seeking forgiveness for one's sins. This self-examination can lead individuals to recognize their own faults and shortcomings, motivating them to improve their behavior and avoid wrongdoing.
- 3. Guidance from Scripture: During prayer, individuals recite verses from religious texts that contain moral and ethical guidance. This guidance can influence their decision-making in various aspects of life, helping them avoid immoral or unethical behavior.
- 4. Community and Accountability: Praying in congregation (Salat al-Jama'ah) is common in Islam. This practice fosters a sense of community and accountability. When people pray together, they are more likely to encourage one another to do good and discourage wrongdoing. The community can provide support and guidance in upholding moral values.
- 5. Humility and Gratitude: Prayer encourages humility and gratitude. When individuals recognize their dependence on a higher power, it fosters humility. Expressing gratitude in prayer can help them appreciate the blessings in their lives and refrain from unethical or immoral actions that might harm others.
- 6. Forgiveness and Repentance: Prayer provides an opportunity to seek forgiveness and repent for one's sins. This encourages individuals to acknowledge their wrongdoing and strive for personal improvement.

Question 28. Write short notes on the following: Murabaha, Mudarabah and Musharakah, Istisna and Salam, Bai Muajjal.

Answer:

- Murabaha :

It is the most frequently exercised mode of Islamic financing which is practically implemented in financial institutions and in other financial transactions. It is defined as:

“Murabaha is particular kind of sale where the seller expressly mentions the cost of the sold commodity he has incurred, and sells it to another person by adding some profit”.

- Mudaraba:

Mudaraba is a special kind of partnership, where one partner gives money to another for investing it in a commercial enterprise. The investment comes from the first partner who is called Rabul Mall and the management is exclusively done by Mudarib.

I) Rabul Mall may specify a specific business and Mudarib have to do that business.

II) Rabul Mall can contract with more than one person

III) Islam has not specify the percentage of profit it depends upon the parties mutual consent, but it is prohibited strictly to allocate lump sum amount to any party.

IV) Any party can terminate the contract only condition is a notice to other party.

- Istisn'a:

Istisna is a mode of finance it is defined as: “Kind of sale where a commodity is transacted before it comes into existence”.

In current era of global business, Istisna can be defined as a party orders to manufacture a product and for this some time he/she have to pay advance payment. The important point in the case of Istisna that the manufacturer uses its own material for production otherwise the contract will be of Ijara rather than Istisna. Also it is important to fix the price with the approval of concerned people and specification of product should also be settled.

There are some differences between Istisna and Salam:

i) In Istisna manufacturing of commodity is necessary

ii) In salam full price is paid in advance but in Istisna there is no such condition

iii) Delivery time is important time of Salam and not of Istisna.

- Bai' Muajjal:

Bai' Muajjal is the Arabic acronym for “sale on deferred payment basis”. The deferred payment becomes a loan payable by the buyer in a lump sum or installment (as agreed between the two parties). In Bai' Muajjal all those items can be sold on deferred payment basis which come under the definition of capital where quality does not make a difference but the intrinsic value does. Those assets do not come under definition of capital where quality can be compensated for by the price and Shariah scholars have an ‘ijmah’ (consensus) that demanding a high price in deferred payment in such a case is permissible.

Question 29. Draw the difference between Capitalist, Socialist and Islamic economic point of view

Answer:

1. Ownership of Means of Production:

- Capitalist: Private individuals or corporations own and control the means of production.
- Socialist: Means of production are often owned or regulated by the state or the community.
- Islamic: Emphasizes private ownership but with adherence to Islamic principles, such as the prohibition of usury (Riba).

2. Distribution of Wealth:

- Capitalist: Wealth distribution is based on market forces and individual economic activities.
- Socialist: Aims for a more equitable distribution of wealth, often through progressive taxation and social welfare programs.
- Islamic: Encourages wealth distribution through charity (zakat) and discourages extreme economic disparities.

3. Role of Government:

- Capitalist: Limited government intervention, with a focus on free-market principles.
- Socialist: Government plays a more active role in economic planning and may own key industries.
- Islamic: Supports limited government intervention, with a focus on ensuring economic justice in accordance with Islamic principles.

4. Incentives and Motivations:

- Capitalist: Emphasizes individual profit motive and competition as driving forces for economic growth.
- Socialist: Promotes collective or societal goals, with an emphasis on meeting basic needs for all citizens.
- Islamic: Encourages economic activities that align with Islamic ethical and moral values, with the understanding of wealth as a trust from God.

5. Decision-Making Mechanisms:

- Capitalist: Decisions are primarily made through market mechanisms, with prices reflecting supply and demand.
- Socialist: Central planning may guide economic decisions, with input from the government and societal needs.
- Islamic: Decision-making is guided by both market mechanisms and adherence to Islamic principles, with a focus on ethical considerations.

Question 30. What is the difference between FUQA'RAA and MASAAKEEN in Zakah?

Answer:

Here are the differences:

Definition:

- Fuqa'raa refers to the people who are poor and who possess more than their basic needs but do not possess wealth equal to Nisaab. It is the plural from FaQ'ir.
- Masakeen: Masakeen refers to the people who are extremely needy to the extent that they are forced to beg for daily food ration.

Degree of Poverty:

- Fuqaraa: While they are in need, fuqaraa may have some resources or means of income, even though it may not be sufficient to meet all their needs.
- Masakeen: This category represents those who are in a more severe state of poverty, often lacking the means to fulfill their basic needs, such as food, shelter, and clothing.

Obligations for Support:

- Fuqaraa: They are eligible for receiving zakat (obligatory almsgiving) and other forms of financial assistance, but the support may be less extensive compared to the support provided to masakeen.
- Masakeen: The masakeen hold a higher priority in receiving assistance, and providing for them is considered a more urgent obligation. They are often the primary recipients of charitable efforts and welfare programs in Islamic societies.
