

- Tahajjud: Tahajjud is the voluntary night prayer offered by Muslims after the obligatory Isha prayer and before the Fajr prayer. It is a form of worship that involves waking up in the middle of the night to pray and seek closeness to Allah. The Tahajjud prayer is highly encouraged in Islam and is considered a way to seek forgiveness, guidance, and blessings.
- The Quran mentions the concept of the night prayer in Surah Al-Isra (17:79), where Allah says, "And during a part of the night, pray Tahajjud beyond what is incumbent on you; maybe your Lord will raise you to a position of great glory."
- Tarawih: Tarawih prayers are special nightly prayers performed by Sunni Muslims during the month of Ramadan. These prayers are offered in congregation at the mosque and involve the recitation of long portions of the Quran. Tarawih prayers are not obligatory, but they hold great spiritual significance during the holy month of Ramadan.
- The Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) said, "Whoever prays during the nights of Ramadan with faith and seeking his reward from Allah will have his past sins forgiven." (Sahih Bukhari)
- Qiyamul Layl: Qiyamul Layl, also known as the Night Prayer or the Standing in Prayer, refers to the act of performing voluntary prayers at night. This term is often used interchangeably with Tahajjud. Qiyamul Layl is a means of seeking Allah's mercy, forgiveness, and blessings. It is a voluntary and recommended act of worship that holds spiritual importance in Islam.
- In Surah Al-Muzzammil (73:1-4), Allah says, "O you who wraps himself [in clothing], arise [to pray] the night, except for a little - Half of it - or subtract from it a little. Or add to it, and recite the Qur'an with measured recitation."
- Suhur and Iftar:
 - Suhur: This is the pre-dawn meal eaten by Muslims before they begin their daily fast during the month of Ramadan. Suhur is consumed early in the morning, before the Fajr prayer, and it provides the necessary energy and sustenance for individuals to endure the day of fasting.
 - the Prophet Muhammad (peace be upon him) emphasized its importance. He said, "Eat Suhur, for in Suhur, there is blessing." (Sahih Bukhari)
 - Iftar: Iftar is the evening meal with which Muslims break their fast at sunset during Ramadan. It is a joyous moment of communal breaking of the fast, often starting with the eating of dates and followed by a larger meal. Iftar is an important social and spiritual event during the month of Ramadan.
 - The act of breaking the fast is mentioned in the Quran in Surah Al-Baqarah (2:187), where Allah says, "And eat and drink until the white thread of dawn becomes distinct to you from the black thread [of night]. Then complete the fast until the sunset."

- I'tikaf: I'tikaf refers to the spiritual retreat or seclusion that some Muslims undertake, especially during the last ten days of Ramadan. During I'tikaf, an individual stays in the mosque with the intention of dedicating themselves to worship, prayer, and seeking closeness to Allah. It is a voluntary act and is considered a highly meritorious and spiritually rewarding practice in Islam.

The Prophet used to observe I'tikaf during the last ten days of Ramadan. There are various Hadiths that describe the Prophet's I'tikaf, such as those found in Sahih Bukhari and Sahih Muslim.
