

A. Talking in the Time of Khutbah:

- The Khutbah is the sermon delivered by the Imam before the Friday (Jumu'ah) prayer. It is a significant part of the Friday congregational prayer.
- It is strictly prohibited to engage in conversation, even for a short while, while the Khutbah is being delivered. Muslims are required to listen attentively to the sermon.
- Talking during the Khutbah not only disrupts the congregation but also nullifies the Friday prayer for the one engaged in conversation.
- The purpose of this prohibition is to ensure that the congregation gains maximum benefit from the religious guidance and teachings being imparted during the Khutbah.

Allaah, may He be exalted, says (interpretation of the meaning):

“Say (O Muhammad صلى الله عليه وسلم to mankind): ‘If you (really) love Allaah, then follow me (i.e. accept Islamic Monotheism, follow the Qur’aan and the Sunnah), Allaah will love you and forgive you your sins. And Allaah is Oft-Forgiving, Most Merciful’”

The way of the Prophet (peace and blessings of Allaah be upon him) was to recite two soorahs in Jumu’ah prayer: Sabbih isma rabbika al-A’la (Soorat al-A’laa 87) and al-Ghaashiyah (88), or he would recite al-Jumu’ah (62) and al-Munaafiqoon (63).

B. Dua in Between Two Khutbah:

- In between the two Khutbahs (sermons) of the Friday prayer, there is a brief period where it is recommended to make supplications (dua) to Allah.
- This time is considered a special moment for prayer, and it is that supplications made during this time are more likely to be accepted by Allah.
- Muslims can make personal dua in their own words, asking for blessings, forgiveness, guidance, or any other legitimate requests.
- This period between the two Khutbahs provides an opportunity for worshippers to connect with Allah in a personal and heartfelt manner.

C. Switching Off Your Phone in Salah:

- When a Muslim is performing Salah (prayer), it is essential to maintain a high level of concentration, devotion, and mindfulness during the prayer.
- Mobile phones, if not silenced or switched off, can disrupt the tranquility and concentration of both the person praying and others in the vicinity.
- To ensure an uninterrupted and focused connection with Allah during Salah, it is advisable to switch off or put the mobile phone in silent mode before beginning the prayer.
- This practice reflects the importance of minimizing distractions and maintaining the sanctity of the prayer experience in Islam, allowing individuals to better connect with their Lord during this sacred act of worship.
